About the University:

In the state of Karnataka, India, 'Rani Channamma University, Belagavi' (RCUB) is the largest university in terms of affiliated colleges. It is one of the new universities established by the Government of Karnataka on 9th September 2010, by upgrading the erstwhile Karnatak University Kittur Rani Channamma (KUKRC) Post Graduate Centre at Belagavi, which was established by the Karnatak University, Dharwad in the year 1982. It has been named after 'Rani Channamma', the queen of princely state of Kittur, of Belgaum district, Karnataka state. In this region of north Karnataka, RCUB, is involved in imparting higher education with values of service, sacrifice, equality, justice and commitment in the minds of youth. Its vision is to envisage an academic environment of excellence, creating and disseminating knowledge and skills borne out of research in interdisciplinary realms, promoting world-class human resource. Its mission is to strengthen professionalism with ethics to enable the students to face the current global challenges. In the process of such tremendous achievement in realising these visionary and missionary goals, is due to the dynamic and zeal of authorities; staff and students of this university.

School of Social Sciences:

RCUB is the first of its kind to introduce the 'School' concept in the state. Sociology is one of the Departments in the School of Social Sciences, to acquire knowledge in the interdisciplinary approach and is being followed in understanding the dimensions of various social issues on the application of different perspectives.

Department of P.G. Studies & Research in Sociology:

The 'Department of Sociology' is one of the pioneering departments in the university, established along with the inception of the KUKRC PG Centre, Belgaum in the year 1982. Further, it was upgraded as an independent department in the Rani Channamma University, Belagavi in July, 2010. The Department offers P.G. and Ph.D. Programmes. The Department continues to cater to the academic and professional needs of the students.

About the Webinar:

There is an imperative need for an effective education to help develop basic research and publication skills in the social sciences. The objective of the webinar is to sensitise the participants about the qualitative research skills that enable researchers to identify a problem, evaluate informational resources for quality and relevance and come up with an effective publication. Implementing research and publishing results is crucial for a career in social sciences. Because, in the academic world, publications are the coin of the realm. The webinar tries to provide a platform for academic interaction and deliberation regarding Qualitative Research and Publication skills in Social Sciences. With such a topic of need of an hour for the researcher in social sciences, the Department of Sociology, Rani Channamma University, Belagavi, has come up with organising this International Webinar.
